

Compassionate support as you enter your next chapter.

It's a time that represents the next phase in life, as mom or dad make the transition to assisted living, giving them the care they need to thrive. An emotional time, where memories are looked back on with nostalgia and you pore over the items which serve as keepsakes, from the giggle-inducing to the

At Safe Harbor, we aim to help ensure a seamless transition, efficiently purchasing your home without the need for costly renovations, realtor fees, and time-consuming de-cluttering. With you in mind, we take on the home as-is, free of expensive outlays and time pressures. Whether your loved ones are out of town or leading a fast-paced lifestyle, our team can swoop in with smiles on their faces and an arsenal of knowledge in tow, supporting you at every step of the way.

With a friendly team of hands-on professionals, we take time to understand you, your preferences, and your individual quirks. A personal touch, where we work hand-in-hand with you, helping you feel fully-supported during your transition. The golden trio of service; Supportive, compassionate, and understanding. The Safe Harbor way.

At Safe Harbor, we know that making the leap from independent living to senior living facilities comes with its challenges. An emotional time, where you say goodbye to the space which was the epicenter of your life, the hub of countless memories, and the go-to for family and friends. Our goal? To make the transition a smooth one, where you can move onto the next chapter in your life without burden.

While the transition into assisted living signals the turn of the page, the sale itself can often be a daunting prospect. What repair work is required? What about the costs involved? If the family is out of town, how can I undertake a clear-out? With a friendly, empathetic, and compassionate team of specialists, we streamline the process, buying the house without even a hint of a spring clean or lick of paint. Working hand-in-hand with your expectations and time frames, we take on the house as-is, easing the pressure on you and your loved ones.

We like to think of ourselves as a concierge service. To us, it's so much more than a quick sale; we help you navigate through this important life event without pressure or weight. Simply remove your prized possessions and we'll take care of the rest, so you can concentrate on creating an inviting place for mom.

From the moment you speak to our friendly, knowledgeable advisors, it will become clear why we are so trusted by those beginning their nursing home journey. From liaising with placement agencies to seeking the leading 'assisted living faculties near me,' it can be a taxing time. With Safe Harbor, we aim to minimize the weight from your shoulders, helping you feel in control and
